NGInstruments receives “2007 Preferred Supplier Award” from Depuy

Warsaw, IN, February 21, 2008 – NGInstruments recently attended the Depuy supplier conference in Boston, Massachusetts. The suppliers were judged on their ability to provide Depuy with overall quality, delivery, and pricing. We outperformed over 100 other Depuy suppliers and received the “2007 Preferred Supplier Award”.

NGInstruments is a woman owned contract manufacturer of orthopaedic cutting tools. The company was established in June of 1995 in Warsaw, Indiana. We specialize in drills, taps, and reamers used in a wide variety of surgical procedures.

The company’s success is based on three key components, quality, delivery, and pricing. NGInstruments prides itself in manufacturing cutting tools that meet or exceed our customer’s quality requirements. We deliver on time and maintain the shortest lead times in the industry. Fair and competitive pricing insures the customers get what they want, when they want it, and at a price they can justify.

David Payne (R), Worldwide Commodity Manager of Instrumentation for Depuy presenting the award to Jim Nicholas, Vice President of NGInstruments.

“We are proud and honored to have earned this prestigious award, said Anthony Nicholas, President. The hard work and dedication of the NGInstruments team made it all possible. We look forward to continuing our outstanding partnership with Depuy.”
